Job: Project Coordinator, Humanities Commons

The Modern Language Association of America seeks a project coordinator to work collaboratively with the MLA staff and other humanities organizations on the Humanities Commons initiative and other related projects intended to help foster greater collaboration and communication in the humanities. This full-time position is available immediately and is expected to run through December 2016.

The project coordinator will serve as the liaison between the MLA Commons team and three partner scholarly organizations, facilitating communication and supporting participating organizations as they get started with the Commons. The coordinator will also support the project principals in keeping the day-to-day activities of the project running on schedule. Furthermore, the coordinator will work with the managing editor of MLA Commons to facilitate member activity and uptake and create documentation and training materials and will participate in other Commons-related projects.

The successful candidate for this position will have
- An advanced degree in a humanities discipline
- Considerable project-management experience
- Excellent communication skills
- A strong record of using social media for scholarly and professional outreach
- Familiarity with recent trends in scholarly communication

Further desirable qualifications include
- Experience leading workshops and a proven track record of doing so with enthusiasm and lucidity
- Demonstrated facility with technology
- A willingness and ability to coordinate multiple moving parts with aplomb

Salary is commensurate with experience. The MLA provides generous vacation and sick time, flexible work hours, a 403(b) retirement plan, and individual health and dental plans with no shared premium cost.

Please submit a letter of application, vitae, and the names of three references to Kathleen Fitzpatrick through Interfolio, using the link above. The MLA is an equal opportunity employer.