

Similarities between North Mesopotamian (Late Halaf), Egyptian (Naqada) and Nubian (A-Group) female figurines of the 6-4th millennia BCE. Journal of Ancient Egyptian Interconnections 27, 24-37. Issue online at https://egyptianexpedition.org/volumes/vol-27/.

“Climate Change and the Rise of the Cult of Re in the Fifth Dynasty.” Göttinger Miszellen 258, 5-6. Voucher copy online at 2019 “A comparison of the polychrome geometric patterns painted on Egyptian “palace façades” / false doors with potential counterparts in Mesopotamia.”

2018 Did ancient peoples of Egypt and the Near East really imagine themselves as facing the past, with the future behind them? Primary document at https://www.academia.edu/36840376/Did_ancient_peoples_of_Egypt_and_the_Near_East_really_imagine_themselves_as_facing_the_past_with_the_future_behind_them, mirror at https://www.scribd.com/document/381829619/Did-Ancient-Peoples-of-ANE-Really-Face-the-Past; Humanities Commons permalink http://dx.doi.org/10.17613/y2ga-7b42.

2016 A Shabti of “Tjehebu the Great:” Tjainhebu (Tȝ3y-n-ḥbw) and Related Names from Middle Kingdom to Late Period. Primary document at

