Lady’s Choice
Lady’s Choice
His heavily shadowed gaze passes behind the Colonel, and I gasp as his focus lands on me.
Matches and Matrimony
Matches and Matrimony

Mr. Darcy
Do you prefer reading to cards?
Mr. Darcy

But pride, where there is a real superiority of mind, will be always under good regulation.
Matches and Matrimony
I learned later the gentleman was one Colonel Brandon, a childhood friend of Sir William Lucas, visiting from his estate in Middleton.
Matches and Matrimony
I had no personal strength to use situations and found that I must agree to his request, as all of society would expect me to rightly do.

Jane Austen: Estate of Affairs
I had just received news that my aunt’s family must vacate Chawton, forced out by a rival claim on my Uncle Edward’s estate.
But I had a plan: if I could find Aunt Jane's missing final manuscript, the proceeds of its sale would save the estate from the grasping Bingham family!
Jane Austen: Estate of Affairs

I am Miss Christiana Austen, Mr. Edward's niece.
Jane Austen: Estate of Affairs

I'm Mrs. Norton, the new housekeeper. Mr. Edward's not due back til tomorrow. You'll have to come back then.

"I am far from approving any use of Mr. Bingley's conduct to Mrs. Bennet, but whatever sacrifice may have been made others unhappy,
may be for the best, and there may be misery.
Thoughtlessness, want of attention to other people's feelings, and want of resolution, will do the business.
"And do you suppose it is either of them?"
"Yes, to the last. But it's gone. I shall disapprove you by saying what I think of persons you esteem. Stop me while you can."
"You persist, then, in supposing his sister influence him?"
"Yes, in conjunction with his friend."
"I cannot believe it. Why should they try to influence him? They can only wish him happiness; and if he is attached to me, no other woman can succeed it."

Congratulations! You've done it.
